Very Badly Burned. WHAT RESULTED FROM BLOWING OUT A KERO

SENE-OIL LAMP. Yesterday morning, about half-past 2 o'clock, Grace Sherwood, who resides at 1421 Franklin street, retired to her room and prepared to go to bed. She first locked her door, and then proceeded to disrobe herself. This accomplished, she approached the lamp, which was filled with kerosene oil, and proceeded to blow into the chimney for the purpose of extinguishing the light. Instantly the lamp exploded, scatter-ing the burning fluid over the thin night-robe (the only garment worn by Grace Sherwood), and setting it ablaze. The girl could not get from the room, the door being locked, and her eries of distress were not heard by the women who lived in the house with her. All that was left for her to do was to try and tear the burning garment from her body. In doing this her hands were burned to a crisp, the finger-nails being contracted and almost drawn from their roots by the effects of the fire. Mad-dened and crazed with pain, the unfor-tunate woman threw herself on the bed in her room, and gave herself up to her fate. While this tragic scene was being enacted insi le, the light dancing against the window-panes caught the eyes of some men wlo home.

chances were of Dr. Crutchfield's recovery they responded in the most hopeful tones. All the indications now were favorable; the wounds were heating nicely, and the dysentery was checked; and Dr. Frank Cunningham stated that unless some un-foreseen accident occurred Dr. Crutchfield would surely recover. He said the patient looked brighter, and every indication now was in his favor; thereupon the Court de-cided to go into an examination of the case, and made this announcement.

Mr. Mason's counsel—Major A. R. Cour-ney, Colonel John B. Young, and Judge W. W. Crump—held a council, and decided to waive an examination in the Po-lice Court, and take the case at once to the Hustings Court. Accompanied by Commonwealth's Attorney S. B. Witt, they apared before Judge Thomas S. Atkins, of the Hustings Court. Drs. Taylor and Cun-ningham here repeated their testimony given before the Police Court, whereupon Judge Atkins announced that he was prepared to grant the accused ball.

When Mason heard this declaration from the Court he leaned forward, placed his hands over his face, and wept silently and bitterly. The scene was very affecting, and impressed those present with the im-pulsiveness of the man's character.

The Court asked if the counsel had anything to say as to the amount of bail. "Nothing in the world," said Colonel Young: "we can give any amount you
